

“One Shoe, One Step at a Time”
by Joanelle Mulrain

2008 Inaugural
Donna Deegan - Jeff Galloway
Autographed & Sculptured Running Shoe

Florida artist Joanelle Mulrain (www.greatblueheronstudios.com) has sculpted a running shoe in honor of the inaugural 26.2 with Donna The National Marathon to Fight Breast Cancer. Its shells are a reminder of protection, and its diamonds are mirrored reflections of the power of the human spirit. On the wings of its feathered heel, the shoe leaves a footprint for us all to ponder as we recognize the importance of working together toward a common goal. Join this cause and let's walk or run together toward winning the race against breast cancer!

“A shoe protects—it stops motion. By working together we can stop the motion of breast cancer in our bodies forever through research by dedicated men and women in the field of science. It takes money for research and people, like Donna Deegan and Jeff Galloway, leading the way to help others deal with the reality of living with breast cancer—one step at a time. one step, one shoe—each of us working together for one cause.” – Joanelle Mulrain